II. Public Portion

A. Introductions – The new Co-Chairs (Katie and Carolyn) get introduced to all the Council members

B. Committee Reports

1. Most of them didn't meet in the past week.
2. JSAAPP talked about the Haverford Against Misconduct flyers; there was some talk at the JSAAPP meeting about holding a forum on what constitutes public and private spaces, and how these distinctions affect the ways different things are handled by security or the police (underage drinking, etc.).

C. Council talks a little bit about the relationship between the Code and interactions with police. Members tend to agree that hopefully community members will have mutually respectful interactions with police officers, and that disrespectful interactions with the police might reflect negatively on the community at large. However, members don't seem to feel that the Code is in effect during relations with the police besides the ideal of respectful communication on the part of both or all parties involved.

D. The new Chairs give Faculty Outreach Committee a survey from circa 1999 of faculty members' attitudes towards and about the Code, which might be revamped into a new survey of faculty attitudes as part of the committee's outreach work.
