A. Committee Reports –

1. Student Outreach – they are constitutionally supposed to print out fliers during finals week to let people know about how the Code relates to exams and final papers; they will work on this asap. Also, Council talks about a mailing that some people who take classes at Bryn Mawr got, which lists the time slots for Bryn Mawr’s self-scheduled exams and also has some of Bryn Mawr’s Code policies about exams, signed by their Honor Board; Council talks about putting together something like this for the spring semester’s exams.
2. Diversity – Katie will be getting in touch with Shashi about town council meetings.
3. JSAAPP – neither of the reps could make it to the meeting this week
4. Faculty Outreach – they sent thank-you emails to the professors who participated in Pizza, Professors, and the Code. Several expressed surprise that the discussion was so focused on the Social Code, and they wondered if students find the Academic Code to be more straightforward and transparent. We will talk more about this next semester

B. Lunch with Greg Kannerstein and Marilou Allen – this was going to be during finals week, but that’s not a very good time for anyone, so we are postponing it until January.
