I. Moment of Silence

II. Event Policy

- a. There seem to have been more incidents of harassment and fighting at events this year. These seem mostly to be due to folks who are not Haverford students but are coming to Haverford events.
- b. Lauren and Jon are going to meet with the deans, and will invite the campus, particularly leaders of organizations that throw events (e.g., FUCS, Social Fund) to talk to them about the event policy and to start a dialogue about this issue.
- c. The SC Events Policy (<http://students.haverford.edu/sc/policies/events.html>) is available online. Key points:
 - i. A member of the organizing group is required to be at the door of the event, restricting access to members of the tri-college community and invited guests.
 - ii. Alcohol is not to be present at the event, in accordance with the Alcohol Policy. It is the responsibility of the event thrower to ensure that this is followed.
- d. Failure to follow the SC Events Policy can result in serious consequences for the individuals/ groups hosting and organizing the event. This may include funding cuts for future events.

III. Athletics

- a. SC is co-sponsoring (with the Athletic Department) a discussion Wednesday, November 19 in Chase at 7 p.m. concerning the future of athletic participation at Haverford College. President Tritton will be attending a conference to talk about reforms to Division III athletics and wants to incorporate real student input into his (Haverford's) opinion. Greg Kannerstein will be there moderating the discussion.

IV. Board of Managers

- a. The Board of Managers is coming on December 6-7.

V. Committee Repots

- a. Appointments
- b. Budget
 - i. The treasurers just worked out a loan with the Oxford Blues, to allow them to produce their CD.

- c. Activities
 - i. Snowball: Planning continues.
 - ii. Next semester, SC would like to sponsor another event like Haverford Idol of Spring 2003. Ideas or suggestions? Email scan@GO.haverford.edu.

VI. Dorm Rep Thoughts

- a. Karl Blumenthal (Gummere) is working on conservation project with Greens that he would like SC to be involved in and supportive of. He will be talking to Housing Director Matha Thornton and other administrators about possibilities for energy conservation in dorms. He is also working on plans for publicizing energy conservation, etc. kblument@haverford.edu
- b. Aleem Ahmed is still working hard on the “Yellow bike” program. He recently met with the leader of the program at BMC. At BMC, folks take bikes out in a very formal way. He envisions this as a much less formal program at Haverford, where folks can just take bikes from place to place and leave them perhaps in designated locations. BMC paid $600 for ten bikes from a local place that refurbishes found bikes. aahmed@haverford.edu
- c. Buses – Did anyone go this weekend? SAGA’s Taste the Rainbow probably kept most people on campus.

VII. Moment of Silence

The Students' Council Co-Secretaries take minutes at each meeting, mainly because they have nothing better to do. And also, it's required by order of the Haverford College Students' Association Constitution, so if they didn't do it, they could get impeached. The process for doing this is a Special Plenary, at which 2/3 of the school must come together to “Gray Davis” Spencer Walters and Joshua Mertz. This seems highly unlikely, so they feel pretty secure with their jobs. Of course so too did the Hessians feel secure. And then along came this guy named George Washington
